HOW TO USE (Rice Cooking) / 使用方法 (煮饭)

1. Measure the desired amount of rice with the measuring cup accessory supplied with the rice cooker. One cup of uncooked rice will become about 3 cups of cooked rice.

2. Rinse the rice in a separate bowl several times until the water in the bowl shows relatively clear. Note: Many suppliers of rice suggest not to rinse the rice as much before cooking because it will lose some of its starch.

3. Put the desired amount of rice and water into the pan.

4. Install the pan into the cooker. Make sure that the pan has direct contact with the heating plate by turning it slightly from right to left until it sits properly.

5. Install the inner lid to the outer lid by pressing the inner lid over the outer lid shaft. After installing the inner lid, the smaller side of the inner lid should face you with the outer lid open. If the inner lid is inverted improperly, the outer lid will not close.

6. To close the outer lid, simply lower it until the lid latch engages with the lid catch with a click.

7. Plug in the AC cord into a wall outlet.

8. Press the switch button on and a click will be heard. The rice cooking light will turn on indicating the rice is starting to cook.

Inner Lid and Pan
Be careful not to deform them: avoid rough handling. Deforming of the lid and pan will adversely affect the cooking and keep warm performance of the cooker.

CLEANING COOKER:
Uncooked rice may produce odd smell. If not cleaned, the smell may not disappear and the keep warm feature may not work properly.

1. After it has been cooled and steamed properly, simply push the lid and open the outer lid.
2. Keep warm cycle will continue automatically, after the cool cycle, until the AC cord is removed from the wall outlet. So, in order to stop the keep warm feature, remove the AC cord.
3. While serving, be careful to keep the flanged rim of the pan free of rice. If this isn't done, the lid may not close properly and the keep warm feature may not work properly.
